

HRV Biofeedback Psychologist Needed in Manhattan

Location

Park Avenue & 59th Street, New York, NY

(In-person position. Preference will be given to a BCIA certified professional or one who is willing to complete certification within 6 months.)

The Firm

The client is a premier New York City based performance psychology practice working with elite athletes, high-performing individuals, and select high-profile clients across sport, business, and entertainment. The firm is distinguished by its deeply personalized, evidence-based approach to performance optimization and mental conditioning. As the practice continues to scale, expanding into new locations and growing its client base, it is seeking senior practitioners to support its next phase of development.

The Role

Seeking HRV biofeedback expert and PhD or PsyD who could work in office (Manhattan) starting 8/1/2026 for 20 client hours per week.

Experience

- 10+ years of experience required.
- Strong grounding in both clinical practice and applied performance psychology.
- Experience in team, organizational, or other high-performance environments is preferred.

Candidate Profile - Credentials

-Ph.D. or Psy.D.

-An expert-level HRV biofeedback practitioner is required.

-Must be BCB certified and, ideally, BCN certified as well.

-Licensed Psychologist (Please note that New York state licensure is not necessary at this time, as the individual will be able to work under the supervisory psychologist's license.)

Opportunity

This is a unique opportunity to join a growing, high-performance practice working at the forefront of sport and performance psychology. The role offers meaningful exposure to top-tier clients and the ability to contribute to the continued evolution of a category-defining firm.

Salary and benefits are commensurate with experience and training. Annual compensation is @ $250,000-$300,000. If you are interested in more information, please email an updated copy of your resume to daniel@psychpros.com for consideration.

Thank you!

Daniel