

Neurotherapy Provider – Full Time

Big Life Integrative Health in Lone Tree, Colorado, offers a more natural approach to Family Medicine through our Direct Primary Care model. We also offer Functional Medicine, Neurofeedback, and IV Hydration medical services. We seek a full time, experienced Neurotherapy Provider to join our growing practice.

Big Life Integrative Health's patients seek Neurofeedback, Neurostimulation, and Biofeedback therapies to alleviate symptoms of mood disorders, behavior disorders, pain, insomnia, post-concussion syndrome, and organic brain conditions like Autism, cerebral palsy, and more. This position is one of influence and respect within the practice, directing all neurotherapy services.

The Neurotherapy Provider position involves a variety of responsibilities, with the majority of provider time spent in direct work with patients. Primary responsibilities include:

- Regular neurotherapy with patients, with roughly 36 hours / week of time one-on-one with patients.
- Complete assessment, neurofeedback, neurostimulation, and biofeedback sessions (both initial EEG assessment and development of long-term treatment plan).
- Offer proactive strategies to support neurotherapy progress between sessions, including but not limited to stress management, mindfulness, and positive coping / adapting strategies.
- Management of patient scheduling and private health record documentation / charting.
- Assist with and / or provide wellness classes, workshops, webinars, and / or educational presentations for patients and the community (which may include evening or weekend hours) from time to time.
- Assist with writing blog posts, social media posts, and educational content for patient literature from time to time.
- Keep appropriate, timely, and confidential records of patient services and participate in provider meetings to address the needs of a growing practice.
- Collaborate with intake, administrative and support personnel of the practice.
- Take vitals and, preferably, draw blood (preferred but not required).
- Uphold ethical and legal standards of the practice and contribute to Big Life Integrative Health's overall mission to be a place of restoration and healing for patients.
- BCIA certified or willing to become BCIA certified.

Qualifications include a four-year degree in a neuroscience field (as required by Neurotherapy certification standards) as well as a certification from a reputable Neurotherapy licensure group demonstrating mastery of the field or verified and appropriate training and prior experience in Neurotherapy as a practicing Registered Nurse, Nurse Practitioner, Occupational Therapist, Chiropractic, Physician's Assistant, Exercise Physiologist, Speech Pathologist, or commensurate advanced degree.

3-5 years prior experience strongly preferred in the field of Neurotherapy specifically.

The practice is open to a dual role for the right candidate to function as both a Neurotherapy Provider and Family Medicine or Functional Medicine Provider or Physical Therapist, etc.– should the superb qualifications of the right candidate in multiple fields complement the mission of Big Life Integrative Health.

Additional Aptitudes:

- Competent, professional demeanor, with a positive, “can-do” attitude when dealing with both patients and colleagues.
- Strong communication skills, both oral and written.
- Computer and technology competence, particularly in maintaining Neurotherapy equipment.
- Self-starter
- Prompt charter
- Accurate and clear record keeping
- Quick learner
- Strong core knowledge of natural medical approaches

Time Requirements:

- 40 Hours / Week, with the potential to work either four, ten-hour shifts or five, eight-hour shifts

Salary and Benefits:

- Salary commensurate with job qualifications and prior experience, to fall in a range between $30-$55/hour.
- Free medical care through Big Life Integrative Health to all staff members and their immediate family members.
- Three weeks' vacation.
- Uniforms provided.
- Discounted supplements, Functional Medicine testing, IV therapies, and Ozone Therapies.
- Chance to work on 2023 Neurofield equipment in a collaborative environment.
